

CRIPPLE TRAVELS ON PLATE.

Legless Beggar Propels Himself Rapidly Along Street.
(From the London Chronicle.)
A brave man struggling with adversity is always a stirring sight—even for the gods. It is said. So the gods must share my admiration for my friend who generally boards the train that I leave at an underground station about midnight. He lives on a sort of plate—having no legs. He propels himself down the steps to the platform quite as fast as I can get up them. And then, with the two sticks under his armpits, he jumps into the train without other assistance—and travels home on his plate.

I should infer he is a fully licensed beggar by day, with money to raffie in his trouser pockets—only he has no room for trousers.

FIFTH AVENUE

BONZANO TO BE CARDINAL, IS CATHOLIC RUMOR

Apostolic Delegate Now on Way Back From Rome May Be Named Next Month.

In connection with the report that a new American Cardinal may be named by the Pope at the coming Consistory in December, Catholic circles had a rumor to-day that the honor is to be conferred upon the Most Reverend Giovanni Bonzano, now Apostolic Delegate at Washington.

FIGHT FOR 5-CENT FARE.

Camden Boycotters Refuse to Pay Higher Rate.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 14.—The citizens of Camden and vicinity are so determined to obtain a five-cent fare that they threaten to continue to boycott the cars of the Public Service Railway Company even if the same fare system is abolished and a seven-cent fare, with one-cent transfer, restored.

Emergency automobile service has proved successful. Passengers pay what seems to them a just fare, basing their calculations on distance traveled. Some pay 5 cents, others 10 cents, and still others 25 cents. Automobile owners are making from $4 to $10 an hour, it is reported.

To Use Real Champagne at Launch of the Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 14.—Champagne, the real old precious $26 a quart vintage from France, will be used in naming the steamship Hartford when she leaves the ways of the Great Iron Works, near New London, next month. This was assured to-day when Mayor Richard J. Kinnealy, whose daughter Marion will be the sponsor, announced all the ancient and accepted rites of launching would be observed.

$500,000 WILL TIED UP
BY THEFT OF PEKINGESE

Reward of $10,000 Offered for Tiny Dog Lost From Bird Store.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 14.—The police and half the population of Kansas City to-day are looking for Topy Lum, a diminutive Pekingese, worth several times his weight in gold, who was stolen from a Kansas City bird store last Saturday. A reward of $10,000 was offered for his return, as the execution of a $500,000 will is dependent on him.

The dog is the property of J. B. McQueen of Detroit, Mich. According to Ralph Harding of the bird store the Pekingese was left with him as a boarder.

ANCIENT TABLE ETIQUETTE.

"Do Not Lick Your Fingers," Is One Good Hint Given.

(From the London Chronicle.)
Hints on table manners have, it would seem, always been welcome. In the Ambrosian Library at Milan there is a thirteenth century MS. entitled "Fifty Courtesies of the Table," by one Fra Bonvassino. Here are a few of the hints:
"Let the hands be clean, and above all, do not at table scratch your head, nor, indeed, any portion of your body."
"Do not lick your fingers, which are very ugly and ill-bred, for fingers which are greasy are not clean but dirty."
"In eating do not put too much upon your spoon at one time, for not only will you thus give much embarrassment to your stomach, but you will, by eating too quickly, offend those sitting near."

The last "courtesy" is wholly admirable: "Wash well your hands and drink good wine."

PROPER WAY TO EAT SNAILS.

Spear on a Fork, Then Comes Life's Critical Moment.

(From the London Chronicle.)
Col. Newham Davis has described the ideal conditions of snail eating. "At Prince's," he writes, "the horned thing is eaten with proper ceremony."
"In a silver bowl, with a silver three pronged fork as a means of conveying the alleged daintiness to the mouth, the long black gelatinous things are brought to the table, very hot, and swimming in a sauce in which laid and onions and garlic seem to be the principal components."
"Spurred on by the fork, the snail goes into one's mouth—and then comes one of the critical moments of life."

STILL HOPE MINERS WILL NOT STRIKE

Joint Conference May Be Reconvened to Settle the Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Hope has not been abandoned here that the joint conference of coal miners and operators may be reconvened before the walkout of 250,000 men in obedience to the strike call for Nov. 1. While neither the miners nor the operators have placed the dispute before the Department of Labor, the Federal machinery is ready for a call. The feeling here is that the threatened strike has not reached a stage where governmental action is necessary.

Secretary of Labor Wilson feels directly interested in what may happen in the next two weeks because of his former connection with the mine workers. For ten years he was Secretary of the National Union.

BOY ADVENTURER SOUGHT.

"I Am Going West," He Wrote to Sister.

An alarm was sent out last night by the police for Gustave Wilson, thirteen, of No. 341 East 35th Street, at the request of his sister Matilda, with whom he lived. His sister found a note last Friday which read:
"I am going away. I am sorry that I am going so suddenly. I am going West. Don't worry. Love and kisses."
It was later found that he had taken twelve dollars, the contents of his bank.

Daniels Sends Eagle Boats to Look for Lost Balloonists.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced to-day that two Eagle boats, equipped with wireless apparatus, have been ordered to Tobermory, Ont., to assist in the search for Capt. Carl Dammann and his aid, whose balloon, one of the contestants in the recent race that started from St. Louis, was found in Lake Huron.
This was done at the request of C. J. Dammann of St. Louis. He stated that it is believed the two men are stranded on an island.

KILLED WIFE 25 YEARS AGO,
IS DYING MAN'S CONFESSION

Struck Her With Iron Bar During Quarrel, He Tells Attorney.

MANDAN, N. D., Oct. 14.—Stricken with paralysis, Albert Brooks, seventy-five years old, called the State's Attorney to his bedside yesterday and confessed he had killed his wife in Columbus, O., twenty-five years ago.
According to the story told, Brooks struck his wife across the breast with an iron bar during a quarrel. He fled to San Francisco and has been travelling over the country since. Physicians hold out no hope for his recovery.

SINGING VS. STAMMERING.

Stuttering Lad Warbles Delightfully in Boyish Soprano.

(From the London Chronicle.)
Stammering has its curiosities, writes a correspondent, and some are to recall the case of the boy at his school who spoke with a stutter and could none the less sing perfectly.

The news of his prowess in the choir spread, and harassed masters would sometimes take advantage of it. And a delighted class would sing the novelty of hearing a lesson sung delightfully in a boyish soprano.
Like the celebrated judgment in 12 flat of the Lord Chancellor in "Joan's Tale," his efforts often deserved a double score.

TABLE ETIQUETTE 1671.

People of Long Ago More Fastidious Than Present Folk.

(From the London Chronicle.)
In a book entitled "The Rules of Civility," published in 1671, there are minute instructions regulating the demeanor of the mere man in the presence of a person of quality.
If the mere man is asked to dine with the person of quality, "it is uncivil to wash with him unless you be commanded expressly. Grace being said, he is to stand still till he be placed, or disposed himself at the lower end of the table. When he is set, he must keep himself uncovered till the rest sit down, and the person of quality has put down his hat." His wife, with both at table and in church in those days.

QUEER ANCIENT DISHES
ONCE SET BEFORE KING.

Henry V. Liked Whelks-Toothsome Edibles With Peculiar Names Ticked the Palates of Royalty.

(From the London Chronicle.)
It is doubtful whether many of the ancient dishes the recipes of which have been handed down to us would be as popular as the sucking pig with barley and chestnuts.

In Henry V.'s reign a favorite dish was fresh sturgeon with wheika. Roast porpoise also was thought fit to be set before the King, and a dish which the old chroniclers linger lovingly over—sheep's heads sauced in ale, with the accompaniment of onions, garlic and leeks.
Then there were dishes with strange names, such as "karumple," "mauplur," and "dilligout." The recipes of the first two have been lost, but dilligout has survived, because until the reign of George IV, the holder of the manor of Addington, in Surrey, was required to present the King with a mess of it on Coronation Day.
It was made, so an old cookery book tells us, from "almond milk, the brawn of capons, sugar and spices, mixed with a chicken parboiled and chopped."

FUN FOR THE CHILDREN.
(From the Louisville Courier-Journal.)
"How do you get your babies to Pitcherize so nicely?"
"By making a game of it."
"I see. Playing 'chew-chew.'"
